WaterStone Bank Donates to Rawhide

Since 1965, Rawhide Boys Ranch has helped hundreds of troubled teen boys change their lives. Located in the heart of Wisconsin along the scenic Wolf River, Rawhide is a faith-based, non-profit residential care center dedicated to changing the lives of troubled teen boys.

WaterStone Bank, with corporate headquarters in Wauwatosa, recently donated a used vehicle to Rawhide Boys Ranch in support of the organization's valuable mission. Individual financial gifts and the sale of donated vehicles and other items provide a critical source of funds to Rawhide allowing them to provide a loving family environment, counseling, education, extra-curricular activities, and valuable work experience training that at-risk young men need to get their lives back on track.

There are many drop-off sites for vehicles throughout the state. WaterStone Bank utilized the drop-off site at Schlossmann's Dodge City of Milwaukee, Inc. located at 4640 South 27th Street. Schlossmann's Dodge City is the second most popular drop-off site in the state.

As a vested member of the community, WaterStone Bank regularly contributes to charitable organizations with monetary grants that specifically benefit children, education and community development. "Donating a vehicle that the bank is no longer using to an organization such as Rawhide aligns perfectly with our charitable contribution goals," stated Bryan Olen, AVP and Director of Facilities for WaterStone Bank.

Established in 1921, WaterStone Bank is a financial institution with offices in Wauwatosa, Franklin/Hales Corners, Germantown/Menomonee Falls, Oak Creek, Oconomowoc, Pewaukee, Waukesha, and West Allis.
